Notes:

1. While there is considerable uncertainty about actual numbers in service and indeed actual bases currently, it is clear that the Army's Watchkeeper system comes under the ownership of two Batteries which are part of 47 Regiment, based at Boscombe Down and so henceforth these will be listed as based there.
2. Although not a change as regards the text goes, it is good to record that Wessex XT761/G-WSEX had its first flight after restoration on 15 February 2019.
3. With final fly pasts happening in mid-February and a diamond nine formation on 28 February, the Tornado GR4 fleet will see its last flights. Thereafter it is expected that most of the fleet will enter the RTP programme at RAF Marham. The current Marham Wing fleet is listed here. Already at least two Typhoons have been noted in full 9 Squadron markings.
4. Tornado GR4 ZA607 was put on display at the Defence Electronics and Components Agency, RAF Sealand, on 20 February 2019.
5. As the RAF100 celebrations near their end, a number of aircraft have started to lose their stickers, including Atlas ZM416 and Globemaster ZZ177.
6. Thanks to Tom McGhee, the allocation of the 50 AH-64Es for the Army Air Corps is confirmed and, as expected, these will be given new registrations. Each will use parts from the 50 former AAC Apache AH1s already at Mesa.
